Will Be at the Navy Yard Next Week

Washington, July 1.—Assistant Secretary Winthrop of the navy department expects to spend July 5 and 6 at the Boston and Portsmouth navy yards. He will inspect several bureaus and look into the question of certain estimates.

MUSIC HALL VAUDEVILLE.

A Strong Bill for the Last Half of This Week

There were three good vaudeville acts, besides the usual interesting picture show, at Music Hall Thursday, which will continue the remainder of the week.

The double act of Emmet and McNeil was especially good. Their specialty is singing and dancing in which both are very proficient. They have played abroad as a team for over eight months and Miss McNeil received her education in England. Miss Emmett's brother, Dan McAvoy, was well known in theatrical circles, having starred in "Coming Thro' the Rye" company, and her sister, Lizzie B. Raymond, is well remembered as a member of the musical comedy, "The Defender."

Mr. L. C. Mettler, America's famous mimic, also appeared and gave some wonderfully good imitations, also musical selections. Mr. Mettler has been on the stage for about 50 years and was formerly with the Morris Bros. Minstrels. He is the oldest living member of that company. His imitations on the accordion were certainly fine.

The wire act was very cleverly done by Mr. Allie Johnson, who kept the audience good natured by his funny maneuvers.

THE WEATHER

Friday night and Saturday—Warm weather becoming unsettled. Probably warm with scattering showers on Saturday. Light to moderate variable winds.

NOTICE

The delivery team from Portsmouth to Rye Beach will commence on July first for the season.

KITTERY LETTER

Kittery, Me., July 1.

Kittery correspondent's telephone 295-5.

Circus day! Men, women and children crowded over to witness the parade. The animals and the show. The floats were overlaid with not only eager children but men and women demanding a vacation that they might attend. Certainly Kittery was well represented.

Miss Helen Dunbar was guest at the Point yesterday.

Isaac Farr of the Intervene will soon start on his annual cruise along the coast of Maine. He will make the trip in his own yacht.

Mrs. Elmer Burnham, who was recently operated on for appendicitis, is reported as resting comfortably.

Master Lloyd Shapleigh, who has been ill for a few days is out again. Miss Alice Locke is entertaining a friend from the South.

Hon. Moses Safford attended the Republican State convention at Augusta.

Miss Alma Holbrook of Brunswick is visiting Mrs. Maxwell.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Goodwin of Dame street are rejoicing over the birth of a son.

A meeting will be held this evening of Dirigo Encampment in Odd Fellows' Hall, The Royal Purple degree will be worked.

Mrs. Frank Shannon is entertaining a guest from Haverhill, Mass.

Among the many improvements that Mr. Percy Iluslin has made upon his house is a new bathroom.

Mr. Jack Kelley is in Rochester, N. H., attending a wedding.

The selectmen will meet this evening in their rooms on Central street at seven o'clock.

Miss Eva Lambert has taken employment in the Woolworth's store. Henry Thompson, who has been working in New Castle, concluded his work there Thursday.

Daniel B. Cook is improving from his recent illness.

Many of the farmers about town have taken advantage of the pleasant weather and commencing their work of haying.

Kittery Point

Kittery Point correspondent's telephone 295-5.

Miss Lillian Walker delightfully entertained at what last evening in her beautiful home. What was enjoyed at four tables after which fruit punch, cakes and ices were served.

The party broke up at a late hour, everyone claiming Miss Walker as a delightful hostess.

AT NAVY YARD

It Was a Busy Day

The beginning of the fiscal year caused a busy scene in all quarters of the yard today due mostly to the inauguration of the new accounting system and the preparations to transfer the equipment to the several divisions at the station.

A Shut Down at Boston

It is rumored that the rolling mill at Boston navy yard where was manufactured all the iron for the chain for the navy, is probably shut down permanently, and that while the navy will continue to make its own chain indications are that the material will be supplied.

Three Shifts in Ordnance

Three shifts are ordered at Boston yard in the ordnance in order that the gun work on the North Dakota and Vermont may be completed in the time allowed.

Must be Ready by 16th

Telegraphic orders were received today from the department to the effect that the U. S. S. New Hampshire must be ready for sailing on July 16.

Transferring Equipment at Boston

Rear Admiral Swift and Commander Parmenter, retired, are at Boston in connection with the transfer of the equipment department shops and work to the machinery and hull divisions, which will take place today, the equipment bureau having been abolished.

The ropewalk, rolling mill, heavy forge and chain anchor shops of the equipment department will come under the direction of the hulls department and the machine shops will go to the machinery department.

Inspection Board Coming

The inspection board, visiting the several yards with Capt. Southland as senior member are expected to arrive at this station on Tuesday next.

Transferred to the Minnesota Paymaster G. W. Pigman, Jr., of the U. S. S. Wisconsin, has been ordered to the U. S. S. Minnesota at Norfolk yard.

Marietta Under Sailing Orders

The U. S. S. Marietta is under sailing orders for the West Indies and is expected to leave here on July 6.

Only a Short Stay Here

Civil Engineer Walter H. Allen, recently ordered to the department of yards and docks at this yard, has been transferred to the bureau at Washington.

New Draftsman Here

Henry F. Dirks, mechanical draftsman, has been transferred from New York yard to this station and assigned to the yards and docks, beginning his duties today.

Back to the West

Mrs. Bertha Handler, daughter of Chief Carpenter J. B. Fletcher, who has been passing a month at the yard, has left for her home in Cleveland, after a brief visit with friends at Lynn and Brockton.

Will Wear White

Orders were given today that the uniforms for yard officers will be white on and after July 5, with the exception of the evening and cooler weather.

SCHURMAN—HATCH

Popular Portsmouth Man Takes a Bride in Massachusetts

Mr. Milton H. Schurman, farmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Schurman of Portsmouth, was married on Wednesday at Cambridge, Mass., on Thursday to Miss Gertrude F. Hatch of that city by Rev. Ralph T. Fawcett.

The groom is a well known young man who has many friends to welcome his bride to our city.

The bride is a native of Exeter, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Juan Hatch, now of Cambridge.

EVENTS OF ELIOT

Eliot, Me., July 1.

Ed. Sherman Paul came out this morning with another story of his up-to-date "garden-cucumbers" big enough to eat, grown out doors from seed which he planted this year.

William L. Tobey and family have arrived from Winthrop, Mass., and are at their summer home, Grassmere, on Riverside avenue.

Mr. Tobey came on Thursday to stay till next Tuesday when he will go back to his business as head of the Lockwood Marine Engine works at East Boston. He will spend Sundays here till the family goes back in September.

The South Eliot Epworth League will have a business meeting at the Methodist vestry tonight.

A request is made for quiet in the vicinity of E. Chester Spinnery's from now till after the 4th, on account of the dangerous condition of little Ruth Spinnery. The child is holding her own but cannot be out of danger for some time to come.

Miss Lura Staples and Harold Staples are visiting their aunt, Miss Mary Pickering and Miss Abbie Pickering of Newington.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Lanier, in arranging for their summer camp at Eliot, have invited the American Institute of Social Service to take charge of the platform of the camp, to secure speakers, and to make the platform so far as possible a spiritual center for the thought of the camp—the life of service in the spirit of Jesus Christ. The first of a series of Sunday afternoon addresses will be given at 3.30 o'clock, July 3.

by Rev. Dr. Josiah Strong of New York, the famous orator, head of the Institute for Social Service, who is to take personal charge of the assignments of speakers.

The East Eliot Industrial club met at the home of Mrs. Harry Orr on Thursday afternoon, June 30. The club will give a lawn party at Mr. George W. Webber's on July 4. Ball game in the afternoon and races, also lemonade, ice cream and cake. Mr. Webber will furnish fireworks for the evening.

The telephone poles are being set on Hamscon road.

Mr. Henry Lincolnton's house is being worked on. Mr. Howard Abbey and Mr. Waldo Sparrow are the builders.

Mr. Samuel Remick is quite sick.

Mr. Waldo Sparrow is doing Mr. George Webber's haying.

The funeral of Mrs. Ellen J. (Shapleigh) Clark, widow of Samuel Clark, was held at the home at two o'clock this afternoon. Rev. William B. Eldridge, pastor of the East Eliot Methodist church conducted the services, assisted by a former pastor, Rev. F. E. Potter of Wilton. The interment was in the family burying ground on the old homestead.

NEW PICTURES AT MUSIC HALL

The new films of moving pictures at Music Hall today are:

"Barly Bill," Essanay.

"Stars and Stripes," Edison.

"Range Riders," Selig.

Daniel street today has the record for dust and it was hard work for passengers to the Shoals boat to find the landing when the wind lifted the dry mud.

RAILROAD WANT AN INDEPENDENT LINE

Boston, July 1.—The fight between the New Haven and the Grand Trunk railroads for the right to build a line between the town of Palmer in Massachusetts and the city of Providence in Rhode Island, was again brought before the Railroad Commission at a hearing Wednesday afternoon.

The prospect of a war between these two railroad lines is attracting the interest of business men all over the State. The Grand Trunk was on the ground first with the petition for the location of the new proposed line. Its plans had been filed with the Railroad Commission when the New Haven stepped in and applied for similar rights.

The hearing was devoted principally to an attempt on the part of the engineers of both lines to disclose the construction plans of the other.

Former Chairman James F. Jackson of the Railroad Commission, represented the New Haven at the hearing and Judge Thomas W. Kennefic of Palmer appeared for the Southern New England Company, which is the name the Grand Trunk is organized under in Massachusetts.

Fredrick Pice of Montreal, superintendent of freight for the Grand Trunk said that the new line would mean a much quicker delivery of freight since it would obviate the necessity of several companies handling the freight to the West.

A score of prominent citizens from the western part of the State favored the independent line as against the New Haven. The taking of testimony was completed Wednesday afternoon. The board listened to the final arguments of counsel Thursday.

NEWINGTON

The marriage of Mr. Frederick Pickering, one of our most worthy citizens, and Miss Gertrude E. Deane, occurred at her former home in Sanford, Maine. The bride has been a teacher in our primary department for several years and not only won the love and respect of her pupils, but of all those with whom she has been associated. Their many friends unite in wishing them much joy and happiness.

The strawberry growers of this town are very busy in harvesting and marketing the abundant crop. Large quantities of this luscious fruit are carried into Portsmouth each day. The young boys and girls, as well as the older ones, are employed picking the berries.

Work on the state road is rapidly being pushed along and a long stretch of newly built road will be added to that already done during the past few years.

Several people in town have gathered peas from their vines and a few bushels have been marketed. The Misses Sarah and Alice Ladd of Frying are the guests of their uncle, Mr. William Furber.

Lura and Harold Staples are spending part of their vacation with their aunt, Miss Mary W. Pickering. Willis Hoyt is passing his vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jackson M. Hoyt.

The teachers and students have all returned from their respective schools to pass their vacation, or a part of it, at their homes.

The young people held a dance in the town hall on Wednesday evening. Rev. Mr. Patch is passing a few weeks in town, before attending the summer school which is held at Harvard university.

The Newington boys will play a game of baseball with the Dover Print boys on the 4th of July.

LIGHTNING STRUCK THE DELAWARE

The Wireless Mast Demolished and Some Other Damage Done

Norfolk, Va., June 30.—The battleship Delaware was struck by lightning on Wednesday and it is said that extensive repairs would have to be made.

The wireless mast was demolished and one man seriously injured, while seven were slightly shocked.

It is reported that there was 15.0-4 pounds of ammunition on deck when the bolt struck.

ELKS HAVE MEETING

The regular meeting of the Portsmouth Elks will be held on Friday evening, July 1st, at 8 o'clock.

A LIVELY FOURTH.

His Proposal of Marriage Was Made Under Difficulties.

By T. DEWITT BOWMAN.
(Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.)

Crack! "Oh, dear, the Fourth has opened! I hope it's time to get up." I looked at a clock. The hour hand stood at 5, the minute hand at half past 5. I turned over and was dropping into a doze when—

Crack! That ended it. I was wide awake and must be abed for two hours. Worse, I must listen to the firing, which came at nerve wracking intervals.

I had been invited to spend the day with the Hunters at their country place. Tom Hunter, my cousin, and his two sisters, Margaret and Josephine, constituted the junior members of the family. Margaret was an extremely likable young woman of twenty. I was sweet on her, but her sister Joe, aged seventeen, was such a disagreeable creature that I hesitated about entering the family.

The explosions all took place very near my window—indeed, so near that I could see the sparks and smoke above the casement. I suspected that Joe was setting them off for the express purpose of annoying me. All doubt of this was removed when I saw a firecracker dangling at the end of a string right before my window.

It spluttered just long enough to make me dread the explosion, which was the more harrowing when it came. Then I heard an idiotic "te-hee."

They say boys between fifteen and twenty-one should be barreled up and put away. There are some girls between those limits who should be walled in. Joe Hunter was one of them.

After two hours of discomfort I arose, dressed and went down to breakfast. The family were all very jolly. Some people could sleep peacefully on a battlefield. None of the family seemed to have been awakened by Joe's firecrackers. I had a headache. If the noise hadn't continued I should have liked to go back to bed. Joe had the assurance to ask me if I had slept well.

I thought that I would like occasion, having a whole day before me, to settle matters with Margaret Hunter, to whom I had for some time been paying attention. Indeed, it was expected that I would propose at no distant date, and as I would be welcome in the family the event was looked forward to by them with pleasing expectation. As I have said, the only thing that delayed me was my unipathy for Joe. But no such ordinary matter as a dislike for a member of a girl's family will long deter a lover, and I had made up my mind if I should meet with a convenient opportunity I would go back to the city after the Fourth with my fate settled.

Since the family expected that I was about to make my proposition it was natural that Joe should know all about it. Whether she did or did not I don't know, but one thing I do know—notwithstanding both her sister's and my efforts to "shut" her she persistently kept tagging about after us. Did we sit on the piazza, she came and occupied the banquette. Did we go out to sit under a copper beech tree whose hanging branches formed a convenient screen, she must come and poke her nose in under pretense of having lost something there. Margaret in order to get rid of her took me up into a cupola, and the band came up, saying that it was the only place from which she could see the paper balloons that were being sent up. There was not a balloon in sight, but she stayed in the cupola waiting for one.

There was nothing for us to do but go down. Joe went down with us and was not away from us long enough for me to enter upon, much less finish, what I had to say to Margaret. Lunch came and nothing accomplished. After the meal I stole away to get a nap under a tree some distance from the house. I was falling into a doze when a cracker exploded within a foot of my ear. I looked around, but, of course, could see no one. I tried to doze off again, but another cracker came, then another and another. I knew very well who was throwing them. It was Joe. But it was impossible to get a sight of her. I got up, went to my room and got a brief nap. Why she consented to let me sleep I don't know. Perhaps she was busy annoying some one else.

About 5 o'clock I met Margaret on the piazza and proposed a walk. We both looked about furtively to see if Joe was within sight or hearing. There was no trace of her. We started, following a secluded path through dense shrubbery. We passed on to a rustic bridge leading over a creek. I paused and leaned against the rail. Margaret did the same, both of us facing the roadway. Feeling safe from interruption, I began my declaration.

"Margaret," I began, "it is time that I should tell you of that feeling which has gradually been rising in my breast ever since I have known you. I have had ample opportunity to observe your beautiful character, your kindly disposition and your native purity. I know that it is presumption in one so unworthy as myself to aspire to be anything more than a friend. I feel—"

"Crack!" The sound was so near me that it shook every nerve in my body. I could not only hear it; I could feel it. But I couldn't see it, for it was directly behind me. Indeed, the explosion occurred at the end of my coattail.

It was followed by another and another in rapid succession. I turned, but the explosions turned with me.

Some one had tied a bunch of fire-crackers to my coattail.

I could neither see nor reach them, for as I turned they turned with me. I endeavored to take hold of them, but only turned faster and faster like a dog running around after his tail. Then I backed up against Margaret that she might relieve me of them, but she gave a little shriek and retreated.

"Take them off!" I cried.

"I don't dare. They'll set my dress afire."

True, dressed as she was in thin white muslin, a spark from the pesky things might light it and cause a tragedy. An opportunity to stop the horrid snapping occurred to me. There was water under the bridge. I ran down there, feeling like one pursued by cracking rides, and, squatting in the creek, had the satisfaction after a few muffled snugs beneath the surface of being relieved of the annoyance.

My white trousers were wet nearly to the knees. My coattail was dripping. I was in no condition to continue a declaration of love. By an unexpressed consent we turned and walked rapidly to the house. We had not taken a dozen steps when we heard what I had heard before when rising that very morning—an idiotic "te-hee!"

Then I knew that we had been preceded by Joe; that she had taken position under the bridge and had tied the crackers to my coattail.

On reaching the house Margaret showed me a rear entrance where I could go up to my room without being seen. There I took off my trousers, wrung them out, sat on them in lieu of ironing and when they were dry enough to put on went down and joined the others on the lawn. Joe was there and when I approached looked at my trousers with well feigned surprise and asked if I had been bathing with my clothes on. I turned my back upon her without reply.

All waited till it grew dark enough to set off the fireworks, of which an abundant supply had been provided. I was determined to have matters settled between Margaret and myself, and as soon as the pyrotechnic display commenced I led her away. Some one saw us and asked where we were going. Margaret, equal to the occasion, replied:

"To the cupola. We can there see not only our own fireworks, but those of all about us."

Following the suggestion, to the cupola we ascended. But I paid no attention to what was passing below. This was my last opportunity to get in my proposal, and I hastened to avail myself of it.

"Margaret," I began again, this time taking her hand, which she did not withdraw, "it was about to say to you this afternoon when interrupted that from the first moment of our meeting I have been impressed with your beautiful character and, though I know it is presumption in me to—"

What?

A rocket screeched not half a dozen feet above our heads.

I looked down on the lawn and by the red light saw Joe, assisted by a couple of her boy friends, aiming another rocket directly at the cupola. We had barely time to get down on the floor before the fiery thing shot with its horrid noise above us. It was followed by a discoloration of roman candles, the balls of which fell either on the roof of or in the cupola. There was nothing for us to do but beat a precipitate retreat. Margaret lost her head completely and ran down the steep staircase so fast that she fell. Catching her up, her head fell upon my shoulder.

"Sweetheart! Margaret! Dearest! Speak to me!"

After all my proposition had come—not, as I had intended it, in formal words, but from the heart.

The most eventful Independence day in my life was over—eventful not only that I had been accepted by the girl I loved, but on account of the difficulties under which I had made my proposal. I have now been married some years, and although I must admit that my sister-in-law has grown to be a sedate woman, I have never forgiven her the levity that caused me so much trouble.

She has a daughter who is as much of a handicap as her mother was when I was a girl.

Do You Know This Flower?

Among the guests at a summer hotel in Vermont was a scientist from Boston, noted for his botanical researches, and a woman desirous of impressing him with her stores of general knowledge; also she affected a deep interest in all matters pertaining to botany.

"I suppose," said the woman one day, "that you find almost all the mountain flowers around here?"

"I find a great many," said the scientist.

"There's one species of flower," she continued, "of which I've read as always being on the hills, and I've always wanted to see it. Perhaps you can pick me some."

"And what is this flower, madam?"

"The 'purple glowing,' you know. I should dearly love to possess some!"—Minneapolis Journal.

Watch Your Shoulders.

When standing before a looking glass notice if your shoulders are the same height. Generally the right is higher than the left. The reason for this unevenness lies in the way one sits. You get into a comfortable chair at your desk, and at once you rest your right elbow on the arm of your chair or your desk, thus throwing one shoulder higher than the other. This is especially the case where one writes a great deal. When you notice that one shoulder is higher than the other the thing to do is to change your way of sitting at your desk. Two simple exercises will be beneficial. The arm of the lower shoulder should be extended upward, the hand grasping a dumbbell. That of the higher shoulder should be lowered and made to support a heavy weight.

STUDIES ARE THOROUGH

Chairman Emery in Europe to Ascertain Methods of Foreign Tariff Investigation—Business Experts Rendering Valuable Assistance on Plan Laid Out by Trained Economists—Attitude of Chemical Men Changed

Washington, July 1.—Several days before leaving Washington for Beverly Hills, President Taft authorized the tariff board to make detailed plans for pursuing a detailed scientific tariff investigation. The members of the board were in repeated conference with the president and the moment the appropriation was voted it was necessary only to touch the button, and the whole machinery of investigation was in motion.

Professor H. C. Emery, chairman of the board, has gone to Europe to study the methods of foreign tariff investigation, notably in Germany and Austria-Hungary. J. B. Reynolds, the second member, left for France about two weeks ago and is organizing a study of foreign costs of production, in which the board will be assisted by special agents of the treasury and the consular service. A. H. Sanders, the third member, has remained in Washington, but will leave for his headquarters in Chicago, where he will organize an investigation of agricultural conditions. He will give his personal attention to wool and to the production of meats and cereals and the market conditions relating thereto.

Within a short time N. I. Stone, the statistical expert of the board, will leave for Europe to collate the facts and figures of Professor Emery has made available. The chairman will return to Washington about July 12 to resume general direction of the work.

The real investigators will not be the three members of the tariff board, however, but the business experts who are rapidly setting to work. For example, one of Carnegie's old engineers, man thoroughly familiar with all the processes and conditions of steel making, will study and report upon that industry. Every schedule will be examined by experts in that particular line. Instead of a small board of three members being responsible for the acts laid before the president, they will be assisted by the most highly trained men that the government can procure.

The work divides naturally into four stages. The general survey is first laid out by trained economists. Costly experiments in other departments have demonstrated that this is the proper way to begin an investigation of this kind. The experts then will be set to work, next the statisticians and finally the board will review and write its report from the material thus assembled.

The chemical schedule is already well along. Some time ago the manufacturers of chemicals held a meeting in New York and at the request of the secretary of the treasury a member of the tariff board attended it. His reception was rather frosty at first, but after he had explained the purpose of the board and the means being taken to execute them, the manufacturers offered their heartiest cooperation, even to a showing of their books and plants.

It was explained to them that if an industry was not receiving protection enough, now was the time to prove it. If its protection was adequate, the investigations of the tariff board would confirm the fact. If it was too much, the tariff experts would discover it and the manufacturer might in time expect the pressure of a public sentiment which would compel him to accept a reduction.

The chemical men appreciated the situation and came to the conclusion that on the whole they would be wise in giving the board every assistance possible. As they suggested themselves, the worst enemy of protection was the man who was getting too much of it, for in time he would excite a public resentment which might even sweep legitimate protection away.

Mandarin Robbed in Paris
Paris, July 1.—Solo Ton Fa, a Chinese mandarin, was relieved of a substantial roll of bills. Accompanied by a police officer the Celestial scoured the cafes and finally discovered the thief feasting a soldier. Both were arrested and the mandarin is happy.

Jewish Expulsions Continue
Kiev, July 1.—The expulsion of Jews still continues, 153 being sent out of Kiev in the last two days, sixty-one from Solomeika, and seventy-seven from Demichka.

For the Speakership

HINDS IS NOMINATED

First Maine District Republicans Want Him to Succeed Allen

Portland, Me., July 1.—Asher C. Hinds, parliamentarian in congress, was nominated to succeed Congressman Allen as representative from the First Maine district at the Republican congressional convention. The nomination was made by acclamation. The nomination of Hinds ends a contest which began more than a year ago, when Frederick Hale, son of United States Senator Hale, began to organize for the campaign. This spring Hinds, E. C. Reynolds of South Portland and Richard Webb of this city announced their candidacy, and a lively campaign followed. Allen had declined to accept a renomination.

DEFEAT FOR HUGHES AND ROOSEVELT

Machine Leaders Put Quietus
on Cobb Primary Bill

Albany, July 1.—The assembly, by a vote of 80 ayes to 62 noes, adopted the adverse report of the judiciary committee on the Cobb compromise direct primary bill. This is a complete defeat for Hughes and Roosevelt.

Speaker Wadsworth of the assembly openly defied the wishes of ex-President Roosevelt as conveyed through Chairman Griscom of the New York county Republican committee. After an hour's conference with Griscom, who informed the speaker of Roosevelt's desire that Governor Hughes be supported, Wadsworth said:

"Mr. Griscom and others have asked me to change my views on the direct primary proposition. I have refused to do so, and I do not believe a direct primary bill framed like the so-called Cobb compromise bill can pass this house."

WAR TO THE KNIFE

Roosevelt Is Going After Scalps of Bosses in the Empire State

Nahant, Mass., July 1.—From this time on it is war to the knife between Theodore Roosevelt and the Republican bosses of the state of New York. The first news that the New York assembly had defeated the direct primary election bill was brought to Colonel Roosevelt at Senator Lodge's residence last night. The vote had this compensating virtue, that the result showed sixteen deserters from the bosses.

But the end is far away yet. There is going to be such a campaign waged within the Republican party of the Empire State as will be without parallel in political history. The contest will begin as soon as Roosevelt returns to Oyster Bay, and no quarter will be asked or given.

FOXCROFT IS REAPPOINTED

Governor Draper Ignores the Protest of Mayor Fitzgerald

Boston, July 1.—Governor Draper sent to the executive council the name of Frank Foxcroft of Cambridge to succeed himself as a member of the civil service commission.

Mayor Fitzgerald recently wrote a letter to the governor objecting to the reappointment of Foxcroft, on the ground that in his opinion one of the commissioners should be a resident of Boston. The governor declined to accept this view.

Kansas, Okla., July 1.—As the result of an old grudge, C. H. Pratt, cashier of the Bank of Kansas, shot and killed Dick Terry, formerly a deputy United States marshal.

Forty Thousand Miners May Strike
Pittsburg, July 1.—A strike of 40,000 miners of Pittsburg district may take place July 4.

CONVERSATION IS KEPT SECRET

Former President In Conference With His Successor

LODGE IS ALSO PRESENT

American People None the Wiser as to What Was Discussed During Two Hour and a Half Talk on Veranda of Summer White House—No Doubt, However, of Sincere Friendship Existing Between the Great Men

Beverly, Mass., July 1.—Senator Lodge's limousine car rolled up to the steps of President Taft's summer home yesterday afternoon, and almost before the wheels had stopped out jumped Theodore Roosevelt.

Five quick steps and he was on the veranda. A couple more and the screen door swung open. Out walked President Taft, and the two greatest men in the country stood face to face. The Taft smile and the Roosevelt grin started together.

"Mr. President," it was Roosevelt who spoke first and the greeting came from the heart. "Theodore," exclaimed the president.

And as right gripped right they patted each other affectionately on the shoulder. Then they laughed and carried on in a way that left not a single lingering doubt as to the sincerity of their friendship.

"It didn't do 'Mr. President' and 'Will,' used to it?" cried the colonel. "But now it's 'Mr. President' and 'Theodore.'"

And still hand in hand and with a couple of affectionate pats the president led his old friend and distinguished guest to the side veranda facing the ocean.

There, seated in two comfortable rocking chairs, the president, who was and the president who is rocked and talked and talked and rocked for two hours and a half.

And for two hours and a half the most momentous political conference of the new twentieth century was on while American people waited for the answer to the widely disseminated prophecies as to what was going to happen. Politically they are still waiting.

But if there is anything in friendship, if there is anything in appearances, in short, if there is any way of telling how one man really feels for another, the answer was given yesterday.

White House attaches, who witnessed the meeting said it was just like the old days when the president was secretary of war and Roosevelt his chief.

But scarcely a moment passed that their voices were not ringing with laughter and both would lean back and let forth their happiness to their hearts' content.

As if the domestic touch only were needed, Mrs. Taft served tea on the veranda. Mrs. Taft, Secretary Norton and Senator Lodge sat about the wicker table and a more merry party would be difficult to find.

And Senator Lodge, unfailing friend and counsellor of the two, sat by and looked on almost benignly. Perhaps none enjoyed the meeting more than he.

Colonel Roosevelt was still in the spirit of the renewed association with the president when he started back to Nahant to spend a second night with Senator Lodge.

As he was leaving the grounds of the president's cottage a group of newspaper men, each willing to give all he hoped to possess for some word of what had really been talked of inside the gates, approached them.

"I had a most pleasant time with the president," he exclaimed. "There is, really, nothing to say, is there, Cahot?" turning to Senator Lodge.

"No, I think not," put in the senator.

"We had a most delightful time, and that's all there is to it," added the colonel. "It was an ordinary, friendly, personal conversation," he added, in response to a persistent questioner.

Following the colonel's departure, Secretary Norton came out, as he said, in response to a request from the president, "to appease the newspaper men and to answer any but too personal questions."

From what Norton said it was plain that Taft and Roosevelt were in perfect agreement in regard to the stand of Governor Hughes on direct nominations.

But further than that Norton refused to go and intimated strongly that there was to be not a word to the nature of the subjects discussed.

Simple Funeral For Daniel
Lynchburg, Va., July 1.—The funeral of Senator John W. Daniel occurred this afternoon from St. Paul's Episcopal church, and the services were simple. The family decided against having a state funeral.

Farmer Held For Peonage
Montgomery, Ala., July 1.—Charged with holding a family of whites in peonage for thirteen years, Oliver Enzor, farmer of Layne, has been arrested on an indictment from the federal court.

CUPID IS FAR AHEAD OF DEATH IN BOSTON

Established Record Last Month
For Number of Marriages

Boston, July 1.—Cupid broke all of his previous "June bride" records in the Hub last month, while Death added to the month's distinction by making the poorest showing that he has made in any similar month in this city in many years.

Last month just 1144 marriage licenses were issued by City Registrar McElennen and his assistants, as against 1036 in June, 1906, which was the best previous record.

Last year but 978 marriage licenses were issued in this city in the month of June.

SUICIDE FOUND ADRIFT

Leaves His Sister $4000, Saying She Can Use It Better Than He

Bay City, Mich., July 1.—Henry Busking, 30 years old, was found dead in a drifting rowboat on Saginaw bay, near Wenona Beach, having committed suicide by shooting. He was a commercial traveler, and left a letter addressed to Otto Young & Co. of Chicago.

The letter to Chicago enclosed a letter to Mrs. Louis Pranks of Leo, Ind., the dead man's sister, with whom he had made his home, saying he had $4000 in Fort Wayne banks, of which she could make better use than he.

AIRSHIP BEYOND REPAIR

No Attempt Will Be Made to Reconstruct the Deutschland

Osnabrueck, July 1.—Count Zeppelin has arrived here, but has not visited the spot where his latest model, the Deutschland, was wrecked.

The latest information from the scene of the disaster indicates that the airship is a total wreck. The reconstruction of the craft will not be attempted, but all the available parts will be used in the construction of a new airship. The motors of the Deutschland, as well as the vertical steering planes, were found not to be damaged.

AS SUBSTITUTE REFEREE

White Will Serve If Anything Should Happen to Rickard

Reno, Nev., July 1.—Charley White, substitute referee to Tex Rickard in the Johnson-Jeffries fight, has arrived at Reno with a party of New York sporting men and politicians. When interviewed White said:

"I shall be at the ringside ready to step into the ring and act in place of Rickard should any emergency require such action. I sincerely hope, however, that no such accident will happen to 'make this necessary.'"

HARVARD MEN DEFEAT YALE

Convincing Proof of Supremacy on the Water

TAKE ALL THREE RACES

Blues Take the Lead in Great Varsity Eight-Contest, but Weaken at Two Miles; Stroke Wallace Collapsing at the Finish—Ells Outrowed and Out-gamed in Varsity Four Race—Crimson Freshmen Victors

New London, July 1.—Harvard's supremacy on the water was driven home to the very heart of Yale when the great shell of the Cambridge varsity eight, driven along as though by powerful engines, swept over the finish of the four-mile course on the Thames three lengths ahead of the defeated, but doggedly fighting Blue warriors. The official time was: Harvard, 20:46½; Yale, 21:4.

Three times yesterday the Blue of Yale was trailed in defeat behind the Crimson of Harvard. It was an exact repetition of the humiliation that Old Eli had visited upon her here a year ago, and the sting bit deep. Yale lost with the courage that has always been hers, however, and her defeat was honored by the plaudits of generous rivals as well as by the thundering slogans of her myriad supporters.

Harvard's joy knew no bounds when the last of the three victories was scored. Every Harvard yacht along the line led its whistle down and every Harvard rower in the miles of humanity that massed the river banks unloosed all the voice that was his, while the flashing of crimson flags, pennants, handkerchiefs and ribbons flamed the eyes as completely as the din smote the ears. It was Harvard's day and Harvard knew it.

The two crews paddled up to the start just before 4:30. Yale got away in the lead and soon left clear water between her shell and that of Harvard. The lead was quickly increased to a length and a half.

Harvard hit up the pace, however, and at the mile was only a length behind. At the two miles, half of the race completed, Harvard was slowly but surely cutting down the lead. The Yale crew seemed to weaken. The boasted strength of the Crimson men began to tell.

Yale was pulling a thirty-six stroke as she passed the navy yard. Harvard also had a thirty-six stroke as the crews turned the bend in the river.

Yale then gained strength again and increased the lead to a length and a half, pulling steadily. But Harvard, after a magnificent start, took the lead after the two-mile stake. Yale then splashed badly and Harvard shot a length and a half to the good. Near the three miles, Harvard was still in the lead and going strongly.

She soon increased the lead to 2½ lengths. It looked as if Yale was almost all in, but suddenly the Blue eight spurred and cut down the lead to one length.

A quarter of a mile from the finish Harvard was two lengths ahead and Yale hit up the pace to thirty-eight, splashing badly. That was the end, for Harvard, rowing like a machine, swept on and won by three lengths. Wallace, stroke of the Yale crew, collapsed and had to be cared for as the race ended.

The freshman eight-oared race, the first event on the day's program, went to the Harvard youngsters by two lengths. The time was: Harvard, 10:54½; Yale, 12:02.

The four-oared varsity race was won by Harvard after one of the most remarkable races ever witnessed on the Thames river in all the years Harvard and Yale have been meeting on the water. The Crimson crew, after being always in the rear, won the race in the last half mile, rowing the Yale four to pieces.

In the last eighth of a mile Harvard, by magnificent rowing, passed the Yale four and thereafter made a runaway of it. Harvard won by six lengths, going away all the time and finishing in grand shape. Yale, on the other hand, was outgamed and outrowed at the finish and her crew was badly used up. Time: Harvard, 12:57; Yale, 14:18.

Both were clean-cut races that were a credit to any crew to win.

ENGINEER JACKSON DEAD

Boston City Official Was Well Known Throughout the Country

Boston, July 1.—William Jackson, city engineer, one of the best known municipal officials in the country, died last night, the second city official to die of appendicitis in two days, and the third to be stricken within a week.

Mr. Jackson was born in Brighton, now a part of Boston, March 13, 1848. From 1885 up to his death he was the head of Boston's engineering department and under his supervision all of Boston's finest bridges were built.

London, July 1.—King Albert of Belgium has reached London incognito for the funeral of the Duc d'Arenberg.

BLAMES DEAD BANDIT

Abson Says That Lynn Death Plot Was Hatched in New York

Lynn, Mass., July 1.—Andy Abson, the bandit, who is in the Lynn hospital with a bullet in his head, received during a running battle after he and two companions had held up and shot Thomas A. Landregan and Policeman James H. Carroll last Saturday. In a story to the police accused the dead bandit, Joe Audpork, of being the originator of the plot to rob Landregan.

Abson claims that he met the other two men while heading his way on a freight train in New Jersey, and that the robbery was planned in New York. He stated the Russian newspapers published stories about the big shoe factories here, but he was unable to obtain a position.

He spent about three days in Lynn and then returned to New York and there met Joe and Iwanowski, whom he told of his trip to Lynn. Joe then thought of the plan of robbing someone and it was arranged they should come to Lynn. The three men made the journey separately, meeting in Central square on the day of the shooting.

PERETZ FOUND GUILTY

White Slave Sent to Prison, While His Wife Will Be Deported

Boston, July 1.—Max Peretz, whose arrest was caused by the agents of the Watch and Ward society, was sentenced to eighteen months in the house of correction on the charge of enticing Mrs. Julia Abrams, a detective in the employ of the society, to go to Panama as a "white slave."

Frieda Peretz, whom Peretz had married, was also sentenced to the same term, but was released from custody on the stipulatory charge on which she had been on trial with her alleged husband than she was arrested by Inspector Leonard of the United States immigration service.

Her arrest was based upon the fact that she was an alien and was earning her livelihood by improper means. She will be deported.

PASSENGERS ARE LANDED IN SAFETY

Steamer Has Exciting Race With Fire In Delaware Bay

Philadelphia, July 1.—Steamer Gremlin of the Merchants and Miners' Boston to Philadelphia service raced with fire up the Delaware bay and steam won.

Eighty passengers aboard had retired for the night when the blaze was discovered. The stewards were ordered to go through the ship waking the passengers and asking them to dress and come up on deck.

The fire was discovered in the cargo forward when the Gremlin was well down toward Cape May. By midnight the ship was abreast of Cape May and headed for the open sea. The fire had been stubborn up to this point. There was a burst of flame forward and the fire fighters came piling back from the foothold they had gained. Then Captain Briggs ordered the ship turned back up the bay.

WILL PAY UNDER PROTEST

Fall River Mills Intend to Test Federal Corporation Tax

Fall River, Mass., July 1.—All corporations here will pay the federal corporation tax under protest, and the treasurers of most of them intend to emphasize their protests by delaying payment until formal demand is made for payment.

The tax is due July 1. Unless it is paid within ten days of that date a demand will be made, and accompanying this demand will be an additional charge of 5 percent on the amount of the tax. Most of the treasurers will submit to this extra charge in order to place their protests on record.

It is expected that all of the corporations associated with the Aikwright club will join with it in testing the corporation tax law in the courts.

MEAD FOR GOVERNOR

Present Lieutenant Governor of Vermont in Line For Promotion

Montpelier, Vt., July 1.—John A. Mead of Rutland was nominated for governor at the Republican convention in this city. Two ballots were necessary, there being five candidates in the field.

The final vote stood: Mead, 844; F. G. Fleetwood of Morrisville, 262; J. K. Bacheelder of Arlington, 60; O. W. Gates of Franklin, 11, and M. J. Haggood of Peru, 2. Mead is now lieutenant governor. L. P. Slack of St. Johnsbury was nominated for lieutenant governor.

DON'T SNEER.

Never bring a human being, however silly, ignorant and weak—above all, any little child—to shame and confusion of face. Never by petulance, by suspicion, by ridicule, even by selfish and silly haste—never, above all, by indulging in the brutal pleasure of a sneer—crush what is finest and rouse up what is coarsest in the heart of any fellow creature.

THE MAINE CAMPAIGN

The voters of Maine have their campaign well under way, and the prospects are that it will be lively from now till the election on Sept. 12.

The Democrats made the first start by holding their state convention very early and doing the same with the congressional district conventions. However, in the state and these three districts, the Republican candidates were known before hand, as Governor Fernald, State Auditor Hatch and Congressman Swasey, Burleigh and Guernsey were the assured nominees. They have all since been placed in renomination.

The First District Republicans have nominated a strong man for Congress, Mr. Asher C. Hinds, a man already experienced in the work of Congress and who for years has occupied the unique position of adviser of the house of representatives or the technicalities of parliamentary procedure. As the first district is the navy yard district the selection of Mr. Hinds is of especial interest in this section and the next congressman will receive a hearty welcome when he comes this way.

The Maine Republicans have already made a good number of their county and legislative nominations. The Maine Republicans labor under the disadvantage of having been a long time in power and hence, forced to face that curious sentiment which arises in each new generation that the people would like to have a change and give the other fellows a chance. This feeling showed itself strongly two years ago, when the Republican plurality was reduced to less than eight thousand. It probably reached its height at that time but it roused Democratic hopes and the Democrats will make their side of the Maine campaign a lively one.

The State tax is only two-thirds what it was under Maine's last Democratic administration, the State debt has been reduced almost to the vanishing point, and public improvements and needs have not been delayed under Republican administrations, so the Maine Republicans are able to present the best of campaign arguments.

New Hampshire will watch the campaign with much interest.

BIRDBEYE VIEWS

A Wisconsin judge has just handed down a decision of interest to fishermen. This Badger state—Solomons was called upon to decide the case of an angler who, in pursuit of trout, waded a stream which flowed through private property and who was sued for damages by the owner of that land. The court held that a landowner has no right or title to a stream passing through his land, or to the fish in that stream; that the streams and the fish in them belong to the commonwealth and that the public has a right to navigate these streams, either in boats or by wading. It was further held that so long as a person following the stream refrained from setting foot on land no charge of trespass could lie.

Prize fights certainly seem to be great levelers. Who can imagine John L. Sullivan and Jack London colleagues in reporting the event?—Portland Express.

The fight followers will take the more interest in the Sullivan version for Sullivan is accepted as an authority on the subject.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES

As Seen in Maine

By party usage the nomination of Governor Fernald for a second term was a matter of course, but it is more than that; it is a well earned endorsement and a well deserved tribute. Personally Governor Fernald is approachable, genial and likeable. As a party leader he has the qualities of successful leadership. As chief magistrate he is earnest, sincere, sagacious and patriotic. He believes in the State of Maine; indeed, on that subject he is an enthusiast. At all times he delights to set forth the attractiveness and resources of the State. This disposition was shown particularly in his inaugural address, in which he declared that God had given great blessings to our State and that we should appreciate and make the most of them. He made suggestions in the line of progress and reform many of which the Legislature carried out as it was able to reach and deal with them. Especially he urged conservation of our resources and the creation of a commission to devise plans for the development of water power and this was done. He urged amendment of the milk laws in the interests of the public health, competitive bids for State contracts, the encouragement of manual training schools, shorter hours of labor for women and children, encouragement of the propagation of shellfish, steps to remedy the pollution of rivers and lakes and for the fire protection of forests, among other things, and action was taken on all of these. Other recommendations included reform of the corporation laws and of the caucus law, and for the establishment of direct primary elections. These and other important objects which have not yet been achieved, he will doubtless bring to attention again, if elected.

For the re-election of so useful a public servant there is every reason and every prospect. The campaign opens auspiciously, with the party united and enthusiastic and with the administration giving a satisfactory account of its stewardship and convincingly answering the attacks of its political opponents. We expect to see Governor Fernald elected by an increased majority. We believe that his straightforward exposition of State affairs will make a favorable impression on the minds of the people.—Portland Press.

HYMN FOR HOME COMING

Portsmouth, N. H., July 4, 1910.
Welcome home! the sweetest message that the poet ever sung;
Welcome home! the dearest greeting ever born of mortal tongue;
Home! a million salient perfume flingers round the magic place,
Better than the Isles of Pleasure that may lure us for a space—
Home, where Mother-heart is waiting with the love light on her face.

As the wandering wing at sunset seeks the shelter of the nest,
And the fledglings huddle closer as the sun sinks down the west,
So the home light beckons ever, and each mortal son has heard
Voices urging him to hasten, like the night call of the bird:
Welcome home! for here is blessing—this today the hearty word.

To the East, the West, the Southland, magic messages are these:
"Sons, come home!" and "Daughters, welcome!" if you hold the golden keys
Loyalty and friendly feeling; Look! behold, we loose the door,
And the latch swings widely open; sit ye by the hearth once more
Where the mother-heart is waiting with the balm of love to pour.

Portsmouth of a thousand blessings sweeter than Elysian airs,
Round the name a perfume flingers like the spice the south-wind bears;
Purer than the dews that glisten on the slopes of Helicon
Are the memories that open as the happy past we con,
So today the flags swing skyward and the purple robe we don.

Blessed indeed the home that wakens thoughts and feelings wholly true!
Blessed the child whose star rose brightly through a cloudless sky of blue!
This the heritage the children who come home today may claim;
Skies unclouded, names untarnished, not a blot to mar her fame!
Swing the banner high, my brothers, Portsmouth is the honored name.
YORICK.

The Old Home celebration is coming along fine.

"The Twins" Are Taking Active Part In Politics

Photos by American Press Association.

"The Twins," as some of the personal friends of Gifford Pinchot and James H. Garfield call the former members of Roosevelt's tennis cabinet, have planned a busy summer and fall. Both men are ambitious. Both have money. But Pinchot has more of the worldly goods than Garfield, and both want to see Roosevelt president again. They are planning, and planning with care, and so important have they become in public life that the country is watching the development of their plans with interest.

PORTSMOUTH COLONIAL CLUB

Season Closed with Election of Officers and a Colonial Tea

The Portsmouth Colonial club finished its season with a roll call and election of officers. Mrs. Burton H. Sperry was unanimously re-elected as president, Miss Mildred E. Towle was elected as vice president; Mrs. John T. Luce as chaplain; Mrs. Eva Durgin as treasurer and Mrs. Amanda Taylor as secretary for the ensuing year.

Mrs. Sperry thanked the club for their interest and attendance the past season, also for her re-election as president, and closed her address with a very strong plea for the members to join the new movement for a more patriotic and less noisy Fourth of July.

Meeting closed with a Colonial Tea.

BAPTIST PICNIC

Large Number Enjoy the Day at Rands Grove, Jenness Beach.

The annual picnic of the Sunday School of the Middle Street Baptist Church was held on Thursday at Rands Grove at Jenness Beach and there were about 250 present, making the trip down in two electric cars. At the grove there was amusement enough for everybody, including contests, a baseball game, captained by Rev. W. P. Stanley and Mr. Lake and the pastor's team won by a score of 6 to 4. The return was made to this city at six o'clock.

ONE MOMENT PLEASE!

Electric Sign advertising is no longer an experiment. The most successful firms of world-wide reputation as well as the stores with whom we have done business give us facts that prove the advertising worth of Electric Signs to be far in excess of any method of advertising that has ever been devised for the amount expended.

Look for the most enterprising city of today and you will find one that uses Electric Signs on all available locations and where merchants appreciate the advertising value and use light. I am making and selling the best signs that can be produced, not the cheapest, cut signs that will stand up and give service for years. Recent inventions have reduced the cost and also the cost of maintaining. Public spirit and civic pride demand well lighted business sections in our cities, why not do your part with a well lighted, artistic Electric Sign and increase your business as well.

I charge nothing for estimates or sketches and am always willing to explain details and serve your interests. Respectfully yours.

BRILLIANT PARISH RECEPTION

A brilliant parish reception by the members of the parish of the St. John's church to their new rector, Rev. H. M. Folsom and Bishop E. M. Parker was held on Thursday evening at the St. John's chapel on State street.

The chapel, which serves also as a parish house was attractively arranged, with the chancel completely hidden by a mass of palms, potted plants and flowers. Tables attractively arranged for serving added to the arrangements of the room.

The rector and bishop were assisted in receiving by the Warden, Judge Thomas H. Shutes and John H. Rose and the ushers were Messrs. Dr. C. W. Hannaford, Benjamin W. Burke, Howard N. Haskell and Arthur H. Locke.

There was a large number of people present and it was a most successful and attractive affair.

During the reception from eight till ten o'clock, Philbrick's orchestra rendered a concert program.

Ices, cake, coffee and fruit punch was served. The coffee servers were Mrs. C. J. Edwards and Miss Georgianna Hill, and Mrs. John W. Kelley served fruit punch. The waitresses were the young ladies of the parish.

Among the clergy present were Chaplain Curtis H. Dickens, U. S. N., and wife; Rev. William P. Stanley, Middle Street Baptist church; Rev. Frank H. Gardner, Court Street Christian church; Rev. George W. Farmer, Methodist Episcopal church, and Mrs. Farmer.

The reception general chairman was Mrs. Frank J. Philbrick.

A ROYAL BOOK BUYER.

The Purchase of Diderot's Library by Catherine II. of Russia.

Empress Catherine II. of Russia was a great reader and a lover of books. One of her services to letters in Russia was the purchase of the libraries of Voltaire and Diderot. She was a warm friend and admirer of these French philosophers, and their work interested her because she was eager to learn new theories of politics and government. Voltaire's library of about 7,000 volumes is now a part of the Russian Imperial library in the Hermitage palace, and in the hall devoted to it is Diderot's statue of Voltaire.

The story of Catherine's purchase of Diderot's library is interesting. It is creditable to her tact and her generosity. Diderot named $75,000 as the price of his library. Catherine II. offered him $80,000 and named as a condition of the bargain that her purchase should remain with Diderot until his death. Thus Diderot, without leaving Paris, became Catherine's librarian in his own library. As her librarian he was given a yearly salary of $5,000.

One year this salary was not paid. Then Catherine wrote to her librarian that she could not have him or her library suffer through the negligence of a treasurer's clerk and that she should send him the sum that she had set aside for the care and increase of her library for fifty years. At the end of that period she would make new arrangements. A check for $100,000 accompanied this letter.

LEE HELPED HIM.

The Old Soldier That Asked For and Received Assistance.

General Robert E. Lee was sitting on the veranda of his Lexington home one afternoon engaged in conversation with some friends when a man, ill clothed and covered with dust, appeared at the gate and timidly beckoned to the general.

Apologizing to his friends, Lee rose at once and went to the gate. Very soon his purse appeared, and he was seen to give the man some money.

His friends, knowing the extent of his charity in any case of suffering, real or apparent, looked on with some impatience, for they knew how slender his means were then and how many calls of the same kind came to him.

"General, who was that?" one of them ventured when he had returned to his place.

"One of our boys in trouble," was the half smiling answer, for the general knew the remonstrance which his friend was longing to make.

"What regiment and company did he belong to?" persisted the friend, anxious, if possible, to unearth the suspected fraud.

"Oh, he—he fought on the other side," was General Lee's calm answer.

Really Antique.

An excellent plaster of paris cast may be seen in one of the Egyptian galleries of the British museum of the famous sphinx statue known as the "Shelk-el-Beled," or "Village Sheltch." The original dates from 3000 B. C. and is still in perfect condition, although it is the oldest known specimen of woodcarving. It represents an overseer of the workmen engaged in building the pyramids close to Sakkarah, where it was discovered.—London News.

Natural.

The Stranger—Was the new candle much put out when they threw the stale eggs at him? Native—He was, sort. He was awful decomposed.—London Sketch.

Will Never Know.

was driven up to his hotel the girl was ascending the steps.

was driven up to his hotel the girl was ascending the steps.

Godard felt uneasy. A friend of his mother's had given him a note of introduction to a Miss Margaret Deane, who was at the hotel or expected to be there soon after his arrival. Suppose the young lady he had kissed should be this Margaret Deane? And suppose she knew he had kissed her? He shuddered. Unless she were a woman of rare good sense and discretion she could make it hot for him. Should she tell the story to his friends to-night, better take passage for Australia or some port where he would be lost to his former existence. When he had fancied that he might have kissed the wrong woman he had been much displeased, and disappointed. Now he hoped he had.

Going to his room, he changed his dress for dinner. Just before going into the dining hall he passed the girl he had kissed. She was walking through the hall. She did not notice him. He was encouraged to think that either he had kissed the other woman or that this one did not connect him with the person who had kissed her. On the register he found the name of Margaret Deane, it having been placed there not far from his own. After dinner he called a servant, gave him his card with his note of introduction and told him to find Miss Deane and deliver them. The servant returned and said Miss Deane would meet Mr. Goddard in the drawing room. Goddard went there and waited a few minutes, when the lady entered. She was the girl with the kissable lips.

She advanced to meet Goddard without the slightest indication of ever having seen him before. The blood suddenly departed from his cheeks; but, encouraged by her manner, he regained confidence and was enabled to stammer some commonplace remarks. Then when they came to chat more freely he observed her closely with a view to discover whether there was evidence of her knowing that he was the person who had taken the liberty the consequences of which had thrown him into so great a terror. He could not detect the slightest sign of her ever having seen him before or of antagonism or embarrassment at meeting him. Surely he must have kissed the wrong woman after all.

Mr. Goddard saw more or less of Miss Deane. His mind was on his secret, and he could not let it alone. He was impelled to discover what would have been his fate had she been kissed by him, as he had intended, knowing him to be the culprit. He made a supposititious case in which a friend of his had done the same thing and asked her had she been the girl kissed what she would have done.

"A man I had never seen and knew nothing about?" she asked.

"I don't know what I should have done openly; inwardly I should have despised the man who kissed me."

Toward the end of his vacation Goddard recovered largely from his fright.

Every day he felt more and more sure that he had kissed the woman who had sat behind Miss Denoe, and he sincerely hoped that that woman had sincerely hoped that that woman had gone to the other side of the globe for a permanent residence. Had he kissed Miss Deane surely she would have given some intimation of the fact that she had passed through the experience of the person he had mentioned in the

"Oh, really, I didn't mean to ask for it."

"Found! May I ask where?"

"Did you find it on the floor?"

"Well, then, where did you find it?"

"Won't you tell me," he stammered

YORK BEACH

The Volunteer Life Saving crew, composed of three crack swimmers, Capt. George Hill, Howard Wentworth and George Lewis, arrived this week in their powerful motor cabin boat for the season. They will patrol the Maine coast from Portsmouth to Old Orchard, and will make their headquarters at York Beach. The launch, which is thirty-five feet in length, is providing with sleeping accommodations for three, and a small kitchen is also attached. Summer visitors who attended the beach last season will undoubtedly remember the gallant work accomplished by this crew.

Mrs. P. T. Kean and daughter Florence are here for a two months' stay at the Kearsarge.

Benjamin Finnegan, president of the class of '10, St. Joseph's high of Manchester, has accepted a position as pianist in the Gay Way theatre.

The entire house, except those six rows, will be open to the public. The doors will open at 3.30 o'clock sharp and those who come will be seated in the order of their arrival.

The exercises will begin at four o'clock sharp.

Per order, EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

DRYDOCK DEWEY AFLOAT

Apparently Undamaged by Her Long Submersion

Manila, July 1.—The drydock Dewey was refloated Wednesday morning apparently undamaged by its long submersion at Manila. The effort to refloat the dock Tuesday failed, and it seemed impossible to accomplish the task with the apparatus at hand. The pumps, however, were kept going and large gains were made in the flooded chambers, and the dock rose gradually during the night, finally floating clear. The officers in charge of the work are greatly elated at their success. A new board is now engaged in a careful inspection of the dock to determine the cause of its sinking. The Dewey, which was towed here from the United States, sank on May 24.

FOX A FARMERS PET

Inez, Ky., July 1.—While guarding his chicken coop from night prowling marauders, William Stone, a prominent farmer, shot and killed a fox. Upon examination Stone ascertained that the fox was formerly a pet of the Stone family. The fox had disappeared thirty-one years ago.

In 1875, the fox, then only a few months old, was captured and tamed by the family. A collar with a nickel-plated band, upon which was inscribed the fox name's Pet, was placed around its neck. Three years later it disappeared. An examination of the body showed the well-worn collar and nickel band, and the band inscribed thereon could be easily distinguished.

HINDS NOMINATED TO SUCCEED ALLEN

Portland, Me., July 1.—Hon. Frank M. Higgins of Limerick called the republican convention for the 1st congressional district to order yesterday at 10.30 Hon. A. L. Allen of Alfred was introduced as the temporary presiding officer. He had a hammer for a gavel, and he said to those on the platform: "If Uncle Joe had this he would pound his desk into pieces."

The temporary organization was made permanent and a district committee of 14, an increase of seven members, was chosen.

W. P. Perkins of Cornish reported a series of resolutions commending the course of the last congress, endorsing the administration of President Taft, protesting against a demerit revision of the tariff and thanking Congressman Allen for his long and faithful service as the member from the 1st congressional district.

The resolutions were adopted. Dr. Alfred King of Portland placed in nomination the name of Asher C. Hinds of Portland, and the nomination was seconded by Hon. George W. Hanson of Sanford.

W. F. Spear of South Portland withdrew the name of Hon. Edward C. Reynolds of South Portland and seconded the nomination of Mr. Hinds. Col. Frederick Hale of Portland said that he was a candidate for the nomination and was beaten.

He pledged a loyal support to Mr. Hinds and moved that the secretary cast the vote of the convention for him, which was done.

A committee was chosen to notify Mr. Hinds of his nomination, and before they returned with the candidate Congressman Allen had been given the hammer he had used as a gavel.

Mr. Hinds was given a fine reception when he was introduced by Congressman Allen as his successor, and his speech of acceptance met with repeated applause.

ROOSEVELT FOR DIRECT PRIMARY

Albany, July 1.—Theodore Roosevelt's advocacy of direct nominations, as exemplified in the Cobb bill now pending before the Legislature, has brought to a climax the four-year struggle of Governor Hughes for primary reform, and is taken as an indication by some of those high in Republican party councils that the former President is willing to assume the role of State leader.

Until Col. Roosevelt sent a message Wednesday to Lloyd C. Griscom, chairman of the New York County Republican Committee, voicing his approval of the measure, if amending as suggested by Mr. Griscom, there was every indication that the bill would be defeated in the Assembly if not in the Senate.

Then the supporters of the measure took heart and prepared for the bitter fight that they knew was sure to come.

Speaker Wadsworth, Chairman Phillips of the Judiciary Committee, and other opponents of direct nominations in the Assembly declared the message from Cambridge would not change their attitude, but several members who voted against the Cobb bill on the eve of final adjournment in May, have signified their present intention to vote for the bill and others are reported to be wavering.

Governor Hughes is expected back from Cambridge today and will be ready to aid in the fight with an emergency message if one is needed, presuming that he does not object to the suggested amendments. The fact that the senate did not meet until last night focused attention on the action of the Assembly on the Cobb and Gandy-Frisbie bills which the Judiciary Committee reported adversely.

THE LYNN HOLDUP WAS PLANNED IN NEW YORK

Boston, July 1.—The first connected statement concerning the Lynn holdup of last Saturday in which Thomas A. Laardregan, a shoe manufacturer, and Policeman James H. Carroll and a robber were killed, was made yesterday to the Lynn police by Andy Abson, one of the three robbers who figured in the affair. The statement was made at the hospital, where Abson is lying with a bullet in his brain, received in one of the volleys fired in Saturday's chase.

Abson first met Joe Andopolik, the robber who was killed on Saturday, and Wasi Iwanowski, the third robber, who is under arrest here, while beating his way on a freight train from New York to Newark, N. J. He afterward saw them again in New York, but he came to Lynn about three weeks ago, alone, to look for work. He had read in Russian newspapers about the big shoe factories there. After spending several days in a vain search for work, he went back to New York, and there met "Joe and Iwanowski."

He told them of his trip to Lynn, and then the robbery plan was thought out by "Joe."

Alison bought a revolver at a store on Broadway, New York, paying, he said, $25 for it with money he had brought from Russia.

The men traveled to Lynn separately. On the day of the tragedy they met in Central square.

A Story of a Visit to an East Indian Temple.

By CLARISSA MACKIE.

(Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.)

It was twilight when Harry Ayers and his guest found themselves outside the Temple of the Five Sighs. They had visited a dozen ancient Calcutta temples that afternoon, and now the dusk had suddenly fallen and turned the crooked length of the narrow street into a dim perspective, lighted here and there by a lantern swinging above a doorway.

In the foreground arose the blank walls of the stone edifice, pierced by a low door, beyond which trembled a faint red glow.

"Have you the courage for another one before dinner?" asked Ayers, pausing at the foot of the stone steps.

"Certainly," returned Longwood. "The dozen we have seen this afternoon have not left the impression of antiquity and mysticism for which

THE CIRCUS IN TOWN

Big Morning Parade and Afternoon Show a Good One

At three minutes past 5 o'clock this morning, to be exact, the smoke of the mammoth engine that hauled behind it the first section of Forepaugh & Sells Brothers' circus, consisting of 20 cars, was sighted by a crowd of 3000 people who were in waiting at the railroad crossing for the coming of the big show.

It was an event that will long linger in the memory of even the youngest who were present. Never in the history of the old city was such a glorious greeting given a circus as that which was handed out the mammoth show that came here today. Noted in the crowd were many of the city's prominent men and their wives and sweethearts.

As early as 1:30 o'clock they commenced to gather. They came from all directions and in all sorts of conveyances, from the trundled baby carriage, to the hay wagon and the automobile of the banker.

It was a sight well worth miles of travel to see. Hardly had the mammoth engine puffed its way to the crossing and come to a halt, before an army of helpers moved like automatic men from the inside of the cars, and in less time than it takes to tell the mammoth dining tent had been raised and the several hundred employees were seated around a sumptuous breakfast. From that moment on, there was never a dull minute and car after car was unloaded as the sections arrived.

The parade started at 10 o'clock. People had been waiting for it on the streets which were packed solid with women and children dressed in white. In fact the crowd shared the attention of the observed with the circus.

There were five bands but the most striking feature was the team of eight camels drawing an Egyptian chariot that glistened in the sunlight in a perfectly wonderful manner. After the camels came the 14 big elephants, their riders sitting gracefully on their heads as they swung along in a satisfied sort of a way.

The afternoon performance was attended by an unusually large crowd who were well rewarded for their attendance.

The opening act of the performance consisted of a huge entry in which 300 people took part. They were dressed to represent every nation of the earth. This huge act was patterned after the Durban of India. In the parade about the arena were the elephants and camels and a troupe of collie dogs from India. These dogs are the only dogs who take part in the act with elephants, as elephants have a natural antipathy for dogs.

Following the elephant acts, the bar performers came forth. The Alvos and Ellets who are being seen in this part of the world for the first time being the chief performers of feats of daring.

Marie Meers, Carrie Rooney and Sadie Lewande, equestriennes took their places in the middle ring while the clowns were making merry jests about other parts of the arena. The trained seals performed at this time and their act was followed by 15 feature acts all taking place in different parts of the arena and high aloft in the top of the tent.

Dan Curtis with his 61 horse act took his place in the middle ring and the horses went through various intricate maneuvers. Three troupes of acrobats with their daring feats followed the performance of the horses and the big attraction was the Metzky troupe.

The Carl Hanley troupe of Germany did their act, and Joseph LeFleur, a tumbler and acrobat took a backward drop of 26 feet, landed on his hands, and, doing a series of pinwheels, cavorted off into the dressing room.

Then came the most gorgeous feature of the entire performance. It was a wire number in which 21 women took part. Suspended by their teeth they went through many difficult feats.

Ada Belle Edwards, a strong woman picked up a barrel with her teeth, and with a man astride of it, walked about the stage.

Sixteen aerial acts followed and the acrobatic part of the performance concluded with the butterfly dance in mid-air by the Menerva Sisters, the Ty-Bell Sisters and the Richards Sisters. There will be another performance this evening at eight o'clock. The doors will open an hour earlier.
